

Module 1 – Drawing Set Organization

1.1 SHEET IDENTIFICATION

The sheet identification format typically used in traditional construction drawing sets uses a consistent set of sheet numbers, drawing numbers, and titles distributed across drawings in a drawing set regarding sheets. These techniques have also provided an opportunity to expand the use of the sheet identifier. Accordingly, the sheet identification format is a key part of V505.

1.1.1 Standard Sheet Identification

The sheet identification format is applicable to both manual and CAD drawings/production. It is consistent with standards established for a wide range of project types. The V505 sheet identification format standard uses consistent sheet numbering as follows:

- 1. The drawing designator – consisting of one alphabetical character and a hyphen or two alphabetical characters.
- 2. The sheet type designator – consisting of one numerical character.
- 3. The sheet sequence number – consisting of two numerical characters.

The use of the drawing designator identifies the sheet as a member of a project. A sheet type designator identifies the type information on the sheet is followed by the sheet sequence number.

Regarding the use of sheet numbers in project delivery, V505 shows two forms of sheet identification. Below is a list of examples of the two methods used to set the context of the presentation of the drawings. Level 1 offers the simplest presentation format and would be suitable for all but the most complex projects. Level 2 provides guidance for complex or special types of projects. Refer to V505 Appendix A – Drawing Designator V505 section 1.1 for examples of the two forms of sheet identification.

Note that the hyphen in the Level 1 drawing designator is a required sheet hyphen in the presence of the second character. The hyphen is optional rather than a required part due to the use of the “00” substructure to represent drawings. An implementation for Level 1 would be to replace the hyphen when appropriate (depending on the drawing sheet hyphen) to the name.

1.1.2 Drawing Designator

The first component of the sheet identification format, the drawing designator, is based on the numbering system of architectural drawing designators, which offer a single alphabetical character and a hyphen (used to separate alphabetical characters) used to:

The drawing designator denotes the category of subject matter contained on the sheet or on the type (drawing). It must appear:
