

CHI SQUARE ANALYSIS:

- The chi square analysis allows you to use statistics to determine if your data is “good” or “non-biased” or if the data is “bad” or “biased”
- If statistics show the data is biased this means that somehow the data is far different from what you expected and something is causing the difference beyond just normal chance occurrences.
- In the Corn Lab we are using laws of probability to determine possible outcomes for genetic crosses.
- How will we know if our Corn data is “good”?
