Introduction

Design variables provide a method for specifying critical parameters just before a simulation. This allows you to make quick changes to parameter values across single or multiple critical components without having to edit any schematic documents. Design variables can also be used to create parametric analysis, which can change a design variable across a range of values and display multiple simulation results on a single plot.

Using Design Variables

This part of the tutorial will show you how to parameterize the width of the PCBs and their placement of an antenna by using design variables. These variable values are then set using the Running Through Environment panel in simulation.

1. Make a copy of the circuitry with components you have previously designed, or create a new one.
2. Place the components of the circuitry.
3. Edit each one of the PCBs to include an antenna, and name the placement by using clicking on it and entering Proprietor. For you can give "y" as a suffix.
4. Define the size of the width from pad to pad. This specifies that a variable called pad will be used to set the width of the PCBs. When you do this, observe that values for "Characteristic Impedance Prop" change from a constant value to a formula that involves the variable pad. Always check to make sure that formula is updated when you change the width to a variable otherwise, your simulation results will be incorrect. Click OK to apply the change.
5. Repeat this procedure to change the width of the PCBs to pad.
6. Name Change pad Width and name. Verify that there are no errors.
7. Launch the Analysis Running Through Environment.
8. Set up the simulation environment as you normally would for simulating a schematic. This includes specifying a simulation file and location, run length, creating the MPE or setting modes in the environment options, and selecting the outputs to be plotted on the schematic.
9. In MPE, select Variables pad Copy Characteristics. The design variable pad and prop should appear in the Design Variables area of the Running Environment Window.
10. In MPE, select Variables pad Value Default on pad. In the value box, type 2.0 and then apply the value by clicking Apply. Change the value of prop to 50.0 and click Apply. Check the values have been assigned, click OK. See Figure 1 and 2 below.
11. In MPE, use the connections by selecting Simulation pad Variable and Run. After loading the the simulation to complete, the results window will pop-up. The results should be
