and other innovative components, and future directions Marshall Laird, James W. Miles, 1983 This book supplements the information given in Volume 1 on the conventional methods of chemical control with accounts of the ecological basis and economic aspects of bio control Special attention is given to innovative approaches such as the use of entomopathogenic bacteria The other control methods discussed include the use of appropriate insect growth regulators organo phosphate and carbamate poisoning of adults and ways in which communities can help to reduce the sources of favourable environments for mosquito reproduction FROM THE PREFACE As this second and last volume of Integrated Mosquito Control Methodologies goes to press it would be heartening to be able to record a rapidly diversifying application of such solutions to pest and vector problems Regrettably this is not yet possible Our contributors have proffered much information which will serve as the basis for future such methodologies with attention to relevant application technology and a number of the examples they furnish illustrate ways in which two or more basically different approaches chemical environmental or biological have been purposely or fortuitously combined in the past Yet in assembling the chapters it proved impossible to obtain any accounts of
