Organizational, Business, and Technological Aspects of the Knowledge Society Miltiadis D. Lytras, Patricia Ordonez De Pablos, Adrian Ziderman, Alan Roulstone, Hermann Maurer, Jonathan B. Imber, 2010-09-27. It is a great pleasure to share with you the Springer CCIS 112 proceedings of the Third World Summit on the Knowledge Society WSKS 2010 that was organized by the International Scientific Council for the Knowledge Society and supported by the Open Research Society NGO <http://www.openknowledge.society.org> and the International Journal of the Knowledge Society Research <http://www.igi-global.com/ijksr> and took place in Aquis Corfu Holiday Palace Hotel on Corfu island, Greece, September 22-24, 2010. The Third World Summit on the Knowledge Society WSKS 2010 was an international scientific event devoted to promoting the dialogue on the main aspects of the knowledge society towards a better world for all. The multidimensional economic and social crisis of the last couple of years brings to the fore the need to discuss in depth new policies and strategies for a human-centric developmental process in the global context. This annual summit brings together key stakeholders of knowledge society development worldwide: from academia, industry, government, policy makers, and active citizens to look at the impact and prospects of information technology and the knowledge-based era it is creating on key facets of living, working, learning, innovating, and collaborating in today's hyper-complex world.

Communication is a critical yet often overlooked part of data science. Communicating with Data aims to help students and researchers write about their insights in a way that is both compelling and faithful to the data. General advice on science writing is also provided, including how to distill findings into a story and organize and revise the story and how to write clearly, concisely, and precisely. This is an excellent resource for students who want to learn how to write about scientific findings and for instructors who are teaching a science course in communication or a course with a writing component.

Communicating with Data consists of five parts. Part I helps the novice learn to write by reading the work of others. Part II delves into the specifics of how to describe data at a level appropriate for publication, create informative and effective visualizations, and communicate an analysis pipeline through well-written, reproducible code. Part III demonstrates how to reduce a data analysis to a compelling story and organize and write the first draft of a technical paper. Part IV addresses revision, including advice on writing about statistical findings in a clear and accurate way, general writing advice, and strategies for proofreading and revising. Part V offers advice about communication strategies beyond the page, which include giving talks, building a professional network, and participating in online communities. This book also provides 22 portfolio prompts that extend the guidance and examples in the earlier parts of the book and help writers build their portfolio of data communication.
