How to Write a Literature Review

Dr. Paul Archbold

Department of Civil Engineering,
Technological University of the Shannon: Midlands Midwest

1. Introduction

- What is a literature review?

- a literature review surveys scholarly articles, books and other sources (e.g. dissertations, conference proceedings) relevant to a particular issue, area of research, or theory, providing a description, summary, and critical evaluation of each work.

- The purpose is to offer an overview of significant literature published on a topic.

- Not to be confused with a book review.

Department of Civil Engineering,
Technological University of the Shannon: Midlands Midwest

2. Why do a Literature Review?

The Literature Review allows you to:

- provide details about the motivation for the project
- state why the problem addressed by the dissertation is important
- set the scene for the work described in the dissertation
- describe what others have done and hence sets a benchmark for the current project

- justify the use of specific solution techniques or problem solving procedures in your work.

Technological University of the Shannon: Midlands Midwest

2. Purpose/Aim of a Literature Review

Specifically, the Literature Review should be used to:

- Place each work in the context of its contribution to the understanding of the subject under review
- Describe the relationship of each work to the others under consideration
- Identify new ways to interpret, and shed light on any gaps in, previous research
- Resolve conflicts amongst seemingly contradictory previous studies
- Identify areas of prior scholarship to prevent duplication of effort
- Point the way forward for further research
- Place one's original work in the context of existing literature
