

Behind Apple.

Last Thanksgiving, a designer from Long Beach Corporation took one of the company's Apple Personal Computers home for the holidays.

While he was out eating turkey, it got baked.

His cat, perhaps misled at being left alone, knocked over a lamp which started a fire which, among other unpleasantities, melted his TV set all over his computer. He thought his game was cooked.

But when he took the Apple to Christmas Computer Store, miracle done, it still worked.

A new case and keyboard made it as good as new.

Nearly 1000 Apple dealers have complete service centers that can quickly fix just about anything that might go wrong on master-less hardware.

If it really looks like a personal computer that solves problems instead of creating them, look to your authorized Apple dealer.

You'll find everything we do here.

IBM? Before the dawn of all things have come headlines. We set the ad in 1981, welcoming IBM to the personal computer market. Granted the Big Blue welcomed them to the market. Oh well. The client is not that dumb. Though Apple was not in the time, the ad placed a nice little line out of a friendly-looking man, and Apple IBM have become the best of friends.

The biggest selling point is never personal built in 1981 will only be this - that IBM is now Apple competitor in the personal computer market. Apple - without the line and better. Apple and IBM featured in most national ads.

Welcome, IBM. Seriously.

Welcome to the most exciting and important marketplace since the computer revolution began 35 years ago.

And congratulations on your first personal computer.

Putting real computer power in the hands of the individual is already improving the way people work, think, learn, communicate and spend their leisure hours.

Computer literacy is fast becoming as fundamental a skill as reading or writing.

When we invented the first personal computer system, we estimated that over 140,000,000 people worldwide could justify the purchase of one, if only they understood its benefits.

Next year alone, we project that well over 1,000,000 will come to that understanding. Over the next decade, the growth of the personal computer will continue in logarithmic leaps.

We look forward to responsible competition in the massive effort to distribute this American technology to the world. And we appreciate the magnitude of your commitment.

Because what we are doing is increasing social capital by enhancing individual productivity.

Welcome to the task
