Contesting Media Power Alternative Media In A Networked World:

Contesting Media Power Nick Couldry, James Curran, 2003 Contesting Media Power is the most ambitious international collection to date on the worldwide growth of alternative media that are challenging the power concentration in large media corporations. Media scholars and political scientists develop a broad comparative framework for analyzing alternative media in Australia, Chile, China, Indonesia, Malaysia, Russia, Sweden, South Africa, the United Kingdom, and the United States. Topics include independent media centers, gay online networks, and alternative web discussion forums, feminist film, political journalism, and social networks, indigenous communication, and church-sponsored media. This important book will help shape debates on the media's role in current global struggles such as the anti-globalization movement.

Remaking Media

Robert Hackett, William Carroll, 2006-07-29 Two renowned authors in the field take an innovative approach and present this unique and timely book which examines the democratization of the media and the activism directed towards challenging and changing media content practices and structures.

The Routledge Companion to Alternative and Community Media

Chris Atton, 2015-05-15 The Routledge Companion to Alternative and Community Media provides an authoritative and comprehensive examination of the diverse forms, practices, and philosophies of alternative and community media across the world. The volume offers a multiplicity of perspectives to examine the reasons why alternative and community media arise, how they develop in particular ways and in particular places, and how they can enrich our understanding of the broader media landscape and its place in society. The 50 chapters present a range of theoretical and methodological positions and arguments to demonstrate the dynamic, challenging, and innovative thinking around the subject, locating media theory and practice within the broader concerns of democracy, citizenship, social exclusion, race, class, and gender. In addition to research from the UK, the US, Canada, Europe, and Australia, the Companion also includes studies from Colombia, Haiti, India, South Korea, and Zimbabwe, enabling international comparisons to be made and also allowing for the problematization of traditional, often Western, approaches to media studies. By considering media practices across a range of cultures and communities, this collection is an ideal companion to the key issues and debates within alternative and community media.

Social Media and the Politics of Reportage

S. Bebawi, D. Bossio, 2014-09-23 Social Media and the Politics of Reportage explores the journalistic challenges, issues, and opportunities that have risen as a result of social media increasingly being used as a form of crisis reporting within the field of global journalism, with a focus on the protests during the Arab Spring.

Alternative

Journalism Chris Atton, James F Hamilton, 2008-11-20 Alternative Journalism is that rare book that services students as much as scholars. It widens the trajectory of media studies and creates different modes of reading, writing, and thinking. It offers an alternative history beyond the tales of great men, great newspapers, great editors, and great technologies. It adds value and content to overused and ambiguous words such as community and citizenship, and captures the spark of new information environments. THE

Participation and Media Production Nico Carpentier, Benjamin De Cleen, 2008 In an era when especially new media are celebrated for their participatory potential questions about the nature and intensity of these participatory processes seem to be superfluous. But raising these questions pushes us into a critical mode towards the changes that have led to the present day media landscape. This volume's authors aim to activate this critical mode and reflect on the participatory nature of contemporary media organizations and products. In order to stand even a remote chance to realize this objective and to critically unravel the societal role of participation we need to acknowledge that participation is a complex and contested notion covering a wide variety of meanings and practices that are converging into a hybrid of technologies, genres and formats. At the same time, prudence is required as many of the empowering and transformative opportunities cover up a multitude of restrictions that deal with muting voices, appropriations, techniques of surveillance, inequalities and exclusions. This volume thus provides its readership with a set of analyses that reconcile the appreciation for the analogue and digital empowerment and emancipation with the critical analysis of their boundaries. Participation and Media Production is the result of the intellectual work of the participants of the 2007 San Francisco Conference of the International Communication Association (ICA). Media Agoras Iñaki Garcia-Blanco, Sofie van Bauwel, Bart Cammaerts, 2009. Media Agoras: Democracy, Diversity and Communication is a collection of essays presenting some of the most up to date perspectives on the study of the role media play in the construction of a more inclusive and respectful society. From theoretical debates on the role played by media in fostering participatory practices in the public sphere to more empirically based analyses of the media policy, production, content and reception in relation to democratic possibilities and diversity, this book presents a critical overview of such crucial debates in contemporary European societies. Javnost, 2007. Rallies, Propaganda, Democracy Kevin Fernandez, 2016. New Media Worlds Virginia Nightingale, Tim Dwyer, 2007. Uses a mix of case studies, theoretical reflection and critical analysis to explore four central issues for the study of new media and their impact on user communities: the impact of convergence, activism, access and participation in new media. Throughout it emphasises the way audiences are experiencing changes in the media. The Information Society Robin Mansell, 2009. The information society refers to a constellation of developments arising from the growing use of communication technologies in the acquisition, storage and processing of information and the role of information in supporting the creation and exchange of knowledge. Research on information societies really began to take off in the 1970s when Daniel Bell wrote about the information age. While there were earlier works that focused on the growing importance of information in the economy, it was not until the mid 1990s and the spread of the Internet that this field of study experienced a huge expansion across a broad range of disciplines in the social sciences and beyond. A critical mass of scholarship has now accumulated, establishing the information society and information societies as a terrain of substance and complexity, the exploration and understanding of which requires increasingly sophisticated navigation skills. As research in and around the area continues to flourish as never before, this new title in Routledge's Major Works series, Critical Concepts in Sociology, meets the need for an authoritative reference work to make sense of a rapidly growing and ever more complex corpus of literature and to provide a map of the area as it has emerged and developed over the last thirty years or so. The Information Society is fully indexed and has a comprehensive introduction newly written by the editor which places the material in its historical and intellectual context. It is an essential work of reference and is destined to be valued by scholars and students as well as policy makers and practitioners in the field as a vital one stop research resource.
