that changes in the economic climate can not account for the magnitude of the societal shift in the timing of independent living marriage and childbearing Aaron Yelowitz debunks the myth that steep housing prices are forcing the young to live at home housing costs actually fell between 1980 and 2000 once lower interest rates and tax subsidies are taken into account And Ngina Chiteji reveals that average student loan debt is only 3 500 per household The trend toward starting careers and families later appears to have more to do with changing social norms as well as policies that have broadened access to higher education than with changes in the economy For better or worse the current generation is redefining the nature and boundaries of what it means to be a young adult The Price of Independence documents just how dramatically the modern lifecycle has changed and offers evidence as an antidote to much of the conventional wisdom about these social changes
