Deep Excavations in Soil John Endicott,2020-08-04 The book describes the theory and current practices for design of earth lateral support for deep excavations in soil It addresses basic principles of soil mechanics and explains how these principles are embodied in design methods including hand calculations It then introduces the use of numerical methods including the fundamental beam on springs models and then more sophisticated computer programmes which can model soil as a continuum in two or three dimensions Constitutive relationships are introduced that are in use for representing the behaviour of soil including a strain hardening model and a Cam Clay model including groundwater flow and coupled consolidation These methods are illustrated by reference to practical applications and case histories from the author s direct experience and some of the pitfalls that can occur are discussed Theory and design are strongly tied to construction practice with emphasis on monitoring the retaining structures and movement of surrounding ground and structures in the context of safety and the Observational Method Examples are presented for conventional Bottom up and Top down sequences along with hybrid sequences giving tips on how to optimise the design and effect economies of cost and time for construction It is written for practising geotechnical civil and structural engineers and especially for senior and MSc students

Human and Ecological Risk Assessment Dennis J. Paustenbach,2024-04-15 Understand the fundamentals of human risk assessment with this introduction and reference Human risk assessments are a precondition for virtually all industrial action or environmental regulation all the more essential in a world where chemical and environmental hazards are becoming more abundant These documents catalog potential environmental toxicological ecological or other harms resulting from a particular hazard from chemical spills to construction projects to dangerous workplaces They turn on a number of variables of which the most significant is the degree of human exposure to the hazardous agent or process Human and Ecological Risk Assessment combines the virtues of a textbook and reference work to introduce and analyze these vital documents Beginning with the foundational theory of human health risk assessment it then supplies case studies and detailed analysis illustrating the practice of producing risk assessment documents Fully updated and authored by leading authorities in the field the result is an indispensable work Readers of the second edition of Human and Ecological Risk Assessment will also find Over 40 entirely new case studies reflecting the latest in risk assessment practice Detailed discussion of hazards including air emissions contaminated food and soil hazardous waste sites and many more Case studies from multiple countries to reflect diverse international standards Human and Ecological Risk Assessment is ideal for professionals and advanced graduate students in toxicology industrial hygiene occupational medicine environmental science and all related subjects

Freedom's Port Christopher Phillips, 1997 Baltimore s African American population nearly 27 000 strong and more than 90 percent free in 1860 was the largest in the nation at that time Christopher Phillips s Freedom s Port the first book length study of an urban black population in the antebellum Upper South chronicles the growth and development of that community He shows how it grew from a transient aggregate of individuals many fresh from slavery to a strong overwhelmingly free community less wracked by class and intraracial divisions than were other cities Almost from the start Phillips states Baltimore s African Americans forged their own freedom and actively defended it in a state that maintained slavery and whose white leadership came to resent the liberties the city s black people had achieved
