Heldman, Carmen I. Moraru, 2010-10-21 Examining the role of engineering in delivery of quality consumer products this expansive resource covers the development and design of procedures equipment and systems utilized in the production and conversion of raw materials into food and nonfood consumer goods With nearly 2000 photographs figures tables and equations including 128 color figures the book emphasizes and illustrates the various engineering processes associated with the production of materials with agricultural origin With contributions from more than 350 experts and featuring more than 200 entries and 3600 references this is the largest and most comprehensive guide on raw production technology Handbook of Bioenergy Crop Plants Chittaranjan Kole, Chandrashekhar P. Joshi, David R. Shonnard, 2012-03-22 As the world's population is projected to reach 10 billion or more by 2100 devastating fossil fuel shortages loom in the future unless more renewable alternatives to energy are developed Bioenergy in the form of cellulosic biomass starch sugar and oils from crop plants has emerged as one of the cheaper cleaner and environmentally sustainable Automation: The Future of Weed Control in Cropping Systems Stephen L. Young, Francis J. Pierce, 2013-11-21 Technology is rapidly advancing in all areas of society including agriculture In both conventional and organic systems there is a need to apply technology beyond our current approach to improve the efficiency and economics of management Weeds in particular have been part of cropping systems for centuries often being ranked as the number one production cost Now public demand for a sustainably grown product has created economic incentives for producers to improve their practices yet the development of advanced weed control tools beyond biotech has lagged behind An opportunity has been created for engineers and weed scientists to pool their knowledge and work together to fill the gap in managing weeds in crops Never before has there been such pressure to produce more with less in order to sustain our economies and environments This book is the first to provide a radically new approach to weed management that could change cropping systems both now and in the future Engineering Principles of Agricultural Machines, Second Edition, Biochar for Environmental Management Johannes Lehmann, Stephen Joseph, 2012-05-16 Biochar is the carbon rich product when biomass such as wood manure or crop residues is heated in a closed container with little or no available air It can be used to improve agriculture and the environment in several ways and its stability in soil and superior nutrient retention properties make it an ideal soil amendment to increase crop yields In addition to this biochar sequestration in combination with sustainable biomass production can be carbon negative and therefore used to actively remove carbon dioxide from the atmosphere with major implications for mitigation of climate change Biochar production can also be combined with bioenergy production through the use of the gases that are given off in the pyrolysis process This book is the first to synthesize the expanding research literature on this topic The book s interdisciplinary approach which covers engineering environmental sciences agricultural sciences economics and policy is a vital tool at this stage of biochar technology development This comprehensive overview of current knowledge will be of interest to advanced students researchers and professionals in a wide range of disciplines
