Cats possess remarkable physical attributes that contribute to their agility and hunting prowess. They have flexible bodies, sharp retractable claws, and exceptional balance, allowing them to climb, jump, and land gracefully. Their whiskers help them navigate in the dark, and their keen senses of hearing and smell make them excellent hunters.

Behaviorally, cats are known for their independence. Unlike dogs, they do not rely on humans for social structure, though they can form deep bonds with their owners. Cats communicate through body language, purring, meowing, and tail movements. Purring is often associated with contentment, but it can also indicate pain or distress. Each cat has a unique personality—some are affectionate and playful, while others prefer solitude.
