Stuart Pugh, Ian E. Morley

Pugh S Model Total Design University Of Strathclyde:

Total Design Stuart Pugh,1991 Based around a core of design activities this book presents the design function as a systematic and disciplined process the objective of which is to create innovative products that satisfy customer needs The author is widely regarded as a foremost authority on an integrated approach to product engineering Highly suitable for all students in engineering industrial design architecture and computer science as well as for the professional engineer and designer who will find in it a very useful framework to assist their design practice

A Mathematical Theory of Design: Foundations, Algorithms and Applications D. Braha,O. Maimon,2013-04-17 Formal Design Theory PDT is a mathematical theory of design The main goal of PDT is to develop a domain independent core model of the design process The book focuses the reader s attention on the process by which ideas originate and are developed into workable products In developing PDT we have been striving toward what has been expressed by the distinguished scholar Simon 1969 that the science of design is possible and some day we will be able to talk in terms of well established theories and practices The book is divided into five interrelated parts The conceptual approach is presented first Part I followed by the theoretical foundations of PDT Part II and from which the algorithmic and pragmatic implications are deduced Part III Finally detailed case studies illustrate the theory and the methods of the design process Part IV and additional practical considerations are evaluated Part V The generic nature of the concepts theory and methods are validated by examples from a variety of disciplines FDT explores issues such as algebraic representation of design artifacts idealized design process cycle and computational analysis and measurement of design process complexity and quality FDT s axioms convey the assumptions of the theory about the nature of artifacts and potential modifications of the artifacts in achieving desired goals or functionality By being able to state these axioms explicitly it is possible to derive theorems and corollaries as well as to develop specific analytical and constructive methodologies

Telematics and Work J.H. Erik Andriesson,Robert A. Roe,2013-05-24 This volume is part of a publication series emerging from an international interdisciplinary study group on New Technologies and Work NeTWork NeTWork is sponsored by the Werner Reimers Foundation Bad Homburg Germany and the Maison des Sciences de l Homme Paris The NeTWork study group has set itself the task of intellectually penetrating various problem domains posed by the introduction and spread of new technologies in work settings This problem focus requires interdisciplinary co operation The usual mode of operating is to identify an important problem within the NeTWork scope to attempt to prestructure it and then to invite original contributions from European researchers or research teams actively involved in relevant analytic or developmental work A specific workshop serves to cross fertilize the different approaches and to help to integrate more fully the individual contributions The concept of telematics refers to the integration of computer telecommunication and information technologies It alludes to the opportunities presented by the technical means to communicate and transfer data over large distances by intelligent equipment Teleshopping teleconferencing teleworking and telebanking are but a few examples of a development which influences both public and private environments Both households and workplaces are likely to be thoroughly changed by telematics This publication emphasises the application of telematics in working environments The central questions of the book are How will the present and future development of telematics effect the nature and organization of work and under which conditions will this development be optimal From the various contributions it is clear that telematics is not a single direct cause or determinant of particular changes in work and organization The development and application of telematics depend on decision making of actors at a political scene both outside and inside the work organizations The effects of the use of these applications appear to be co determined by many other factors In fact the technology interacts with political economic and social factors in a complex process that shapes new organizational forms and work relationships
