Abstract. This study aims to reveal the mindset of students. The disclosure of mindset will be studied through students' background, academic self-concept, and non-academic self-concept. The research method used is a qualitative approach with data sources from students' teachers and parents at SMP N 1 Kawangkoan. The results showed that a positive non-academic self-concept was able to make students able to process their emotions, have many friends and become honest individuals. On the other hand, a negative non-academic self-concept will make it difficult for students to interact with their social environment and process wrong emotions it leading to actions that are not normal. Students who have a positive self-concept can be categorized as a growth mindset and a negative self-concept can be categorized as a fixed mindset. Students with a growth mindset are students who have an unyielding attitude. He will face all the challenges that are in front of him. Meanwhile, students with a fixed mindset are students who easily give up. He will consider a challenge as an obstacle so that the feeling of stopping fighting arises.

1 Introduction

Along with the increasing age of the child (student), the physical aspect will experience growth and development. Furthermore, there is an increase in the function of various physical aspects. At the same time, there are psychological developments. The indicators are that they are more responsible, independent, able to adapt, desire to be creative, develop their abilities to the need to actualize themselves, and want to be appreciated. Self-actualization and the desire to be appreciated are usually obtained by doing various activities that produce services or works to get a satisfactory achievement and prestige. To achieve all that, the environment plays a very important role in fostering the maturity of each student so that students can find a solid self-concept. That is, self-concept is something that is formed, not automatically exists, along with the level of individual growth and development. Therefore, the formation of self-concept is closely related to the environment in which individuals live and work.

The process of forming a self-concept begins when students are young. A critical period of self-concept formation occurs when students enter elementary school (SD). Glasser, an education expert from America, stated that the first five years of elementary school will determine the "fate" of the next student [1]. Often the wrong education process while in elementary school results in the emergence of negative self-concept.

A negative self-concept can be seen from the indicators. According to that students perceive that they are weak, helpless, unable to do anything, incompetent, failed, unfortunate, unattractive, disliked, and have lost their attraction to life. According to Podjijogiyanti, many students who experience failure in lessons are not caused by low intelligence or weak physical conditions, but by feeling unable to perform tasks [2]. These students will tend to be pessimistic about life and the opportunities it faces. Students who have a negative self-concept will annoy friends, make noise, and fight and if they fail, they will blame themselves or blame others [3].

School is the second educational institution after education in the family which has a vital role in developing a positive self-concept for students. Schools should essentially provide many opportunities for children to compare themselves with their friends so that their self-assessment gradually becomes more realistic. Students who are regularly allowed to compare themselves with their friends tend to have a great opportunity to take steps that can maintain the integrity of their self-esteem. Thus they will focus more attention on areas in which the student excels (such as sports, social relationships, or hobbies) and less attention on areas that give him or her a hard time. Perhaps because they have mastered several fields and experiences to take into account the strengths in student self-performance, most students try to maintain stable self-esteem during school.

According to Santrock, changes in students' self-concept while studying in elementary school can be seen from at least three characteristics of self-concept, namely (1) internal characteristics, (2) characteristics of
