Holocaust and the Nakba are foundational traumas in Israeli Jewish and Palestinian societies and form key parts of each respective collective identity This book offers a parallel analysis of the transmission of these foundational pasts in Israeli Jewish and Palestinian societies by exploring how the Holocaust and the Nakba have been narrated since the signing of the 1993 Oslo Accords The work exposes the existence and perpetuation of ethnocentric victimhood narratives that serve as the theoretical foundations for an ensuing minimization or even denial of the other's past Three established realms of societal memory transmission provide the analytical framework for this study official state education commemorative acts and mass mediation Through this analysis the work demonstrates the interrelated nature of the Israeli Palestinian conflict and the contextualization of the primary historical events while also highlighting the universal malleability of mnemonic practices

Harcourt School Publishers Social Studies Richard G. Boehm, 1998-07 Taking Religion Seriously Across the Curriculum Warren A. Nord, Charles C. Haynes, 1998 The authors chart a middle course in our war over religion and public education one that builds on a developing national consensus among educational and religious leaders While it is not proper for schools to practice religion or proselytize neither is it permissible to make them religion free zones Schools do not take religion seriously as the authors review of textbooks and the new national content standards makes clear In Part One they outline the civic constitutional and educational frameworks that should shape the treatment of religion in the curriculum and classroom In Part Two they explore major issues relating to religion in different domains of the curriculum in elementary education and in middle and high school courses in history civics economics literature and the sciences They also discuss

Bible courses and world religions courses and explore the relationship of religion to moral education and sex education

Every Student Dianne L. Ferguson,Ginevra Ralph,2001-10-15 Today s students are more diverse than ever before in cultural backgrounds learning styles and interests social and economic classes and abilities and disabilities How can schools accommodate these differences while also dealing with the many other demands for change from the push for tougher standards to the call for more discipline in the classroom This book offers answers and challenges schools to reinvent themselves as more flexible creative learning communities that include and are responsive to a full range of human diversity
The authors propose a systemic change framework that structures change efforts at district school and classroom levels Their approach rests on three main ideas Locate decisions with groups of teachers Create new roles for teachers Redesign individualized education plans Using these ideas as a starting point they describe strategies to help teachers design personalized curriculum and teaching that will accommodate the widest possible student diversity including students who are officially designated as disabled They provide a variety of practical tools for gathering information about students developing long term curriculum plans planning lessons tailoring learning experiences creating classroom based assessment systems writing individually tailored education reports and reflecting on one s own teaching The book reflects 15 years of collaboration and learning among groups of educators trying to improve their teaching practices in the face of dizzying changes The authors believe their synthesis of learning and professional development finally undoes the separation of general and special education and accomplishes what they think is the real purpose of schooling to help all students become active valued members of their community Note This product listing is for the Adobe Acrobat PDF version of the book
