Regulator

Regulators control output pressure in a system. Pressure in a system of lines acting over a specific amount of distance. These devices are fitted with mechanical components that react to changes in the downstream air pressure. The regulator allows a constant pressure to be maintained across a pressure source as long as the input pressure remains greater than the output rated pressure. The working air in a regulator is vented to atmosphere. The regulator is used to control pressure in a system.

Pressure Adjustment Knob

Turning the knob clockwise increases the pressure. Turning the knob counter-clockwise decreases the pressure. Lower the pressure for compressed air used in tools.

Pressure Gauge

Regulator Controls Pressure or Force

Regulators are used to control the pressure of a pneumatic system. Every pneumatic system should have a pressure relief valve to prevent over pressure conditions. The regulator used in the 1/2" NPT 1500 PSI 100 and 1000 psi working pressure.

Speed or Flow Valves

Flow valves control the speed of air flow through a pneumatic system. There is a restriction of the flow of air through the valve or orifice over a period of time. The restriction is adjusted using the needle valve. Turning the needle valve clockwise increases the flow rate. The higher the flow rate, the faster the cylinder will operate.

Flow is regulated in one direction only and flow slowly in the other direction. The flow through air direction is slow using a large orifice contained in the valve. The regulated air flow direction is slow with a small orifice. Flow will be stopped or fast accomplished by regulating the flow of air out of a control or component.
