

Cloning

A Biologist
Reports

A microscopic view of several green, rounded cells, likely plant cells, arranged in a cluster. The cells are bright green and have a slightly irregular, rounded shape. They are set against a dark, almost black background, which makes the green color stand out. The cells appear to be connected by thin, dark lines, possibly representing cell walls or membranes. The overall appearance is that of a cluster of young plant cells or a developing embryo.
