Environments the field's leading researchers bring together their most advanced work and applications. They identify the key challenges facing haptic interface developers, present today's best solutions, and outline a clear research agenda for the future. This book draws upon work first presented at the breakthrough haptics conference held recently at USC's Integrated Media Systems Center. The editors and contributors begin by reviewing key haptics applications and the challenges of effective haptic rendering, presenting new insights into model acquisition, contact detection, force feedback, compression, capture, collaboration, and other key issues. Next, they focus on the complex human factors associated with successful haptic interfaces, examining questions such as: How can we make haptic displays more usable for blind and visually impaired users? What are the differences between perceiving texture with the bare skin and with a probe? In the book's final section, several of today's leading haptic applications are introduced, including telesurgery and surgical simulation, scientific visualization,

Smith, Li Zhang, Chuan-Tao Wang, Ming F. Shi, Jeong-Whan Yoon, Thomas B. Stoughton, Jian Cao, Farhang Pourboghrat, 2005-08-19. The Numisheet Conferences occur once every three years, alternating in location between North America, Europe, and Asia. The conference attracts international participation from the metal forming industry and university professors interested in sheet metal forming technology, with a strong emphasis on forming simulation. Although the conference is dominated by the automotive industry, the conference has a wider appeal, drawing contributions from the aircraft and canning industries, as well. The Numisheet Conference Proceedings include the latest developments in metal forming technology, which is a rapidly growing and challenging opportunity for application of science to industry. The developments are described in over 125 papers included in Part A of the proceedings. In addition, this volume includes the Numisheet Keynote Program, which focused on cutting areas of technology and was presented by selected leading scientists in the field of metal forming One of the hallmarks of the conference is the Numisheet Benchmark Study which is a set of three blind tests prepared one year prior to the conference Participants are invited to submit their predictions of how selected types of sheet metal will deform under large plastic deformation during the manufacture of actual automotive products and laboratory test specimens The complete specifications and results of this blind test are described in Part B of the proceedings
