

Grade 9 Geography Notes: Erosion and Deposition

1. Definition of Erosion and Deposition:

- Erosion: Erosion is the process by which soil, rock, and other Earth materials are worn away and transported by natural agents such as water, wind, or ice. It typically occurs on the Earth's surface and gradually changes the landscape over time.
- Deposition: Deposition is the process by which eroded materials are deposited or laid down in new locations. It occurs when the transporting agent (e.g., a river or glacier) loses its energy and can no longer carry the sediment, resulting in its release and settlement.

2. River Course:

- A river course refers to the path or route that a river follows from its source to its mouth (where it empties into another body of water, like a lake, sea, or ocean). It can be divided into three main sections: the upper course, middle course, and lower course.

3. Elements of a River Course:

- The Upper Course: This is the source region of the river, usually located in the mountains. It has steep gradients, and the river is often fast-flowing and narrow. V-shaped valleys and interlocking spurs are common features in this section.
- The Middle Course: In this section, the river has a moderate gradient. It is wider and deeper than in the upper course, and meanders (bends) often form. Floodplains and ox-bow lakes may also occur.
- The Lower Course: The river slows down significantly in this section and becomes wider and deeper. It often forms large meanders and might split into smaller channels called distributaries near its mouth.

4. Features of River Erosion and Deposition:

- River Erosion: The force of flowing water can erode the riverbed and its banks, resulting in the formation of various features like:
  - V-Shaped Valleys: Formed in the upper course due to vertical erosion.
  - Waterfalls: Occur where a river flows over a band of hard rock followed by soft rock, causing differential erosion.
  - Meanders: Bends or loops in the river formed in the middle and lower courses due to lateral erosion.
- River Deposition: As the river loses energy, it deposits the materials it carries, leading to the formation of features like:
