

AP Biology - Chapter 5 Cellular Respiration Assignment

- What is the relationship between anaerobic and aerobic biology?
 Anaerobic means "without oxygen" and aerobic means "with oxygen". Anaerobic respiration is the breakdown of glucose into pyruvate, which can then be converted into ethanol or lactic acid. Aerobic respiration is the breakdown of glucose into carbon dioxide and water, which releases a much larger amount of energy than anaerobic respiration.
- What does an electron transport chain and what is the difference between a lowering and maximum electron potential?
 The electron transport chain is a series of protein complexes in the inner mitochondrial membrane that transfer electrons from one molecule to another, creating a proton gradient. The difference between a lowering and maximum electron potential is the difference in energy between the two states of the electron carrier.
- Describe the process and purpose of cell respiration.
 Cell respiration is the process by which cells convert glucose and oxygen into carbon dioxide and water, releasing energy in the form of ATP. The purpose of cell respiration is to provide the energy needed for cellular processes.
- Explain prokaryotic cell division - binary fission and budding.

- What is surface area to volume ratio and how does it affect the size of a cell?
 Surface area to volume ratio is the ratio of the surface area of a cell to its volume. As a cell grows, its volume increases faster than its surface area, which can lead to a decrease in the surface area to volume ratio. This can affect the cell's ability to exchange materials with its environment.
