8) Describe the four types of fronts and the weather you would expect with each.

Type of Front	How It Forms	Weather It Brings
