Section 2.1 – Organizing Qualitative Data

Organizing Qualitative Data Introduction

- When data is collected from a survey or designed experiment, they must be organized into a manageable form. Data that is not organized is referred to as raw data.
- Ways to organize data:
 - o Tables
 - o Graphs
 - o Numerical Summaries (Chapter 3)

A frequency distribution lists each category of data and the number of occurrences for each category of data.

Example Organizing Qualitative Data into a Frequency Distribution:

A physical therapist wants to determine types of rehabilitation required by her patients. To do so, she obtains a simple random sample of 30 of her patients and records the body parts requiring rehabilitation.

Construct a frequency distribution of location of injury

Construct a frequency distribution/ relative frequency distribution/bar graph/Pareto chart/ pie chart using the following data (next page). Use StatCrunch. List the commands you need for StatCrunch.
